

CURRICULUM VITAE (CV) GUIDE

cur • ric • u • lum vi • tae: Latin, course of (one's) life

A curriculum vitae is your first point of contact between you and your future colleagues. The role of a CV is to grab the interest of the reader and encourage him/her to look over your other application materials. For this reason, it is important to think about how you describe and format your experiences. What will your audience be looking for? What do you have that other applicants may not? Your job is to make it easy for your reader to find the strengths and achievements that you can bring to the position.

Comparing the Curriculum Vitae and Resume:

A curriculum vitae and a resume are similar in that both highlight one's education and relevant experience. However, a CV tends to be longer and is used more widely when candidates have published works like scientific evidence or journals. Common for graduate students, a CV tends to include any research experience, teaching experience, and publications. CVs are more comprehensive as they are used when applying to positions where specific field knowledge or expertise is required. Like a resume, there is no one correct format for a CV- the key is formatting and organization!

Curriculum Vitae

Goal: Obtain an academic position, research position,

or grant

Audience: Fellow academic/researcher of similar field

Structure: Text-heavy

Length: (Flexible) as long as necessary

-Doctoral CVs typically 3-4 pages

-Master's CVs typically 1-3 pages

Content: Complete history of academic pursuits (including teaching, research, awards, and service)
Tailored to highlight ability to conduct research/teach
OR tailored to highlight ability to fit with specific job/field

Resume

Goal: Obtain a nonacademic job

Audience: Potential nonacademic employers Structure: Minimal text, concise, achievement

oriented bullet points

Length: Typically 1 page; limited to 2 page

maximum

Content: Summary of most relevant skills and experiences tailored to ability to fit with specific

job/company

FORMATTING

Typically, a CV should begin with contact information and education. Sections that include items with various dates (such as education, research experience, service work, etc.) should be listed in reverse chronological order. Also, don't forget page numbers!

Personal Information

The personal information section of your CV can appear as the header. Be sure to include: your name, home address, phone number, and email. Some students will include their office/department contact info. Do not include: date or place of birth, marital status, gender, religion, social security number, etc. (These should never be included on your CV or resume).

CAREER CONNECTIONS CENTER

UNIVERSITY OF FLORIDA

Education

Your education section should include the name of the colleges/universities attended, the location (city, state, and country if outside of the United States) of each facility, the type of degree earned along with the field of study, and the graduation date.

General Formatting:

Degree, Discipline Area Graduation Date (Month Year)

University Name, Location

Dissertation/Thesis (Optional): Title or Topic

Certifications/Awards (Can be included here or later in CV)

Beyond the education and personal information sections, CV formatting varies widely. Below are some suggested categories to include on your CV:

Academic ServiceGrant Writing ExperienceResearch FieldsAdministrative ExperienceGrant Funding ReceivedResearch InterestsArticlesInternational StudyScholarly Presentations

AwardsJournal ReviewsScholarly WorksCertificatesLanguagesScholarshipsCommittee LeadershipLeadershipSkills (Languages)Community ServiceLicensureStudy Abroad

Conference Leadership Master's Project Teaching Assistantships

Conference Presentations Monographs (differentiate from Instructor of Conferences Attended Panels Organized Record)

Dissertations/Thesis Panels Served On Teaching Interests
Departmental Service Presentations Teaching Overview
Education Interests Professional Associations Teaching Summary
Educational Overview Professional Certifications Technical Skills

Endorsements Professional Experience Thesis

Exhibitions Publications Travel Abroad

Fellowships Relevant Courses University Involvement

Graduate Practica Related Employment Workshops

When choosing which categories to include on your resume, think about which will highlight your most prestigious strengths and achievements in the position/field you are applying for. You may also reformat the categories so that your strongest points appear earlier in your CV.

General Formatting for Experience Sections:

Your Title Dates

Company/Organization, City, State/Country

- Begin description with past tense action verb
- Describe tasks and responsibilities, quantifying wherever possible
- Use keywords where its appropriate to demonstrate knowledge of the field
- You can also have longer, action oriented descriptions instead of bullet points on a CV. They should be easy to read and concise.

General Formatting for Awards and Honors:

- Include: Funding Agency, Title of Award, Date Receive, Amount (optional)
- Description should demonstrate how you were recognized by your department/professional organization

General Formatting for Publications and Presentations:

Publication/Presentation

- Use citation structure that is appropriate for your discipline
- If multiple authors/presenters, bold your name when listing all names

Final Points on Formatting:

Be consistent in your formatting.

- Use formatting (bold, italics, underlines) to separate sections and help readers navigate the page.
- Some opportunities prefer a traditional CV (very basic formatting, essentially lists, no descriptions).
- After the first page, begin page numbering (2,3,4,5....)
- 0.5 Margin Minimum; 11pt Font Size Minimum
- Use Standard Fonts (i.e. Arial, Times New Roman)
- When applying to professional schools/programs, it is important to check their website for required CV formatting (CVs vary per school, program, and even field of study)
- Tell what you did, how you did it, and what the result was.
- If altering your CV into a resume for a non-academic job, focus more on the processes than the content of the work, and use bullet points.

WRITING BULLET POINTS OR DESCRIPTIONS

Transferable skills are the tasks you know how to do regardless of where they take place. They describe your functional skills. Action verbs are strong active words which help you clarify your activities in a meaningful and relevant way. Emphasize results to show accomplishments. -> Action verb + Transferable skills/Task = Result. Example: Demonstrated leadership by conducting individual training for new employees who all moved into management positions

REFERENCES

Unlike a resume, a CV includes references. If possible, provide 3-6 references (with at least name, address, and contact information) of individuals who can comment positively on your capabilities. Remember: Always ask your references if you can include them on any documents (not just your CV), and let them know if they may be contacted.

Example: Dr. Alice Alligator

Research Advisor

Department of Chemistry University of Florida Gainesville, FL 32611 (123) 123-4567
