Title: Soil Science in Cuba: Status and Challenges

Date: Monday, October 2, 2017

Time: 3:00 pm – 4:00 pm

Location: McCarty Hall A, Room G186

Cuba is characterized by a wide range of soil types about which there is extensive information. The Seminar will address the main results and achievements of Soil Science in Cuba; the situation in many areas due to inadequate intensive management for many years; the strategies proposed to address them and the current difficulties of soil related institutions. Finally, the challenges and tasks to be addressed in the immediate future are proposed.
